POTOMAC FLATS CASE

District Supreme Court Has It Under Consideration.

METHOD OF ADJUDICATING CLAIMS

Preparation of Rules to Govern Final Settlement.

ADJOURNED UNTIL MONDAY

Chief Justice Bingham and Associate Justices Hagner and Cox of the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia sat in general term this morning for the purpose of considering a motion for a further order or decree necessary to carry into effect the mandate of the Supreme Court of the United States in the famous Potomac flats litigation.

The Supreme Court of the United States has decided that the title to the entire water front within the District of Columbia is vested solely in the United States. The case was remanded to the general term of the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia for the purpose of having the lower tribunal fix the proper method to be followed in adjudicating and settling the claims growing out of the court's sweeping decision.

In the opinion of the Supreme Court, the present holders of wharfage rights should not be dealt with as trespassers, and are entitled to compensation for any improvements made upon the premises. In so much as they have been allowed to hold uninterrupted possession, have been allowed to bargain and sell the property, and, above all, have been designated on the records as pay taxes on the value of the same into the treasury of the United States.

When the court assembled, shortly after 10 o'clock, in Equity Court room No. 1, Mr. Hugh T. Taggart, assistant district attorney, called attention to the mandate of the higher court, and read the opinion of the United States Supreme Court, as well as the opinion of the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia, which is involved, as is well known, the title to the entire water front.

Attorney's Statement. Mr. Taggart stated that the case had been sent back to the District Supreme Court for that tribunal to lay down certain rules in an order which would govern the final settlement of the matter. Some equitable method must be devised, Mr. Taggart said, of taking the property out of the possession of the present holders and turning it over to the chief of engineers of the United States army and the District Commissioners. The officials mentioned have been named as the controlling authorities.

After hearing the views of the several attorneys interested the court adjourned until Monday morning at 10 o'clock, with the understanding that the attorneys shall employ the time between now and then in agreeing upon a form of order to be presented to the court. The first order to be signed will be in the case of the Esby estate in Georgetown, represented by Messrs. Talmage, and Wilton J. Lambert and Webb & Webb, and in which heavy damages have been added to the additional cases.

The property owners along the river have been represented throughout the litigation by Messrs. Laubert and Lambert, Webb & Webb, Carlisle & Johnson and the late Reginald Fendall.

The Potomac flats case was instituted some thirty years ago in the instance of a suit for the recovery of the title of the District Supreme Court in 1868. After three weeks of argument by the various attorneys the court rendered an opinion in which it was held that the title to that portion of the property immediately abutting the river was in the United States. This court held that in many instances compensation should be granted the holders who had constructed improvements.

Lower Court Sustained. An appeal was taken to the United States Supreme Court, and the case was argued last October, a decision being rendered about a month ago, in which the lower court was upheld. The majority opinion was handed down by Justice Shiras, a dissenting opinion, held by several justices, being written by Justice White.

A TOUR OF TRIUMPH. Gov. Roosevelt on the Duties of the American People.

Governor Roosevelt of New York continued his eastward journey yesterday, spending the day in Milwaukee, where he was given an ovation. He participated in a flower parade that was witnessed by 200,000 people, and was entertained royally by the officials of the city and its citizens alike. In the afternoon he was the guest of the chamber of commerce and delivered an address. In the course of it he spoke as follows:

"At the end of the nineteenth century, as this country moves along on the road to greatness, she has many serious problems to face. When she needs to carry out her purposes she can call upon such men as I am now addressing. You of the great world hold in your hands the future of this nation. It rests with you, and you will I know, show yourselves equal to the task. We always have with us our home problems, and we should aim always to get our public life men of courage, of common sense, and of honesty. No amount of genius or brilliancy can atone for a lack of the elements of fearlessness, of decency, and of honesty, and no one or two of these will avail unless the man has all three.

Nation's Welfare Considered. "The ablest man alive, if corrupt, is a danger to the country or community to just the extent of his brilliancy and ability, and you, gentlemen, are in honor bound to show him to feel the weight of your disapproval. I don't care how brave a man is, if he is a natural-born fool, he isn't worth knowing in the head. If a man is lacking in common honesty he is not fit for public life, no matter how brilliant he may be. We have certain important foreign problems which confront us. The United States has evidently as great a destiny on the Pacific as on the Atlantic coast, and whether we live on that former or the latter we must be equally interested in the welfare of the nation upon every foreign question. We should all see that the nation rises on the Pacific as on the Atlantic, and we have a right to demand of all good citizens to stand by the President, to uphold the honor and the glory and the greatness of the flag, no matter what the individual ideas may be regarding the Philippine question.

The Lesson to Be Taught. "We cannot fool with any one who bears arms against our rights and our destiny; the people of the world must be made to realize that we fear none and that we must be obeyed whenever we are contending for our rights. We must treat those who are against us as they deserve, and when we have proven to them the right and justice of our cause, then we must treat them with humanity and liberality, and because of their weakness we should be more than ordinarily lenient and just with them. And we want to make it understood, that while we fear no nation and shirk no duty, we desire above all things peace, and we feel that the nations are 'the great nations which have interests together.' These are America, England and Germany. These should work hard in and for the solution of the questions that now confront us in the Pacific.

It is a pity that the United States can do toward not merely injuring, but wiping out an industry. Last year, during the quarter from April to June, inclusive, 50 packages of oranges were shipped to England experimentally, and were not successful. During the same time the ship 415,000. Meanwhile the duty against foreign oranges has gone into operation in the United States, with the startling result that since April only 150 packages of oranges have been shipped to America, and none at all to England. Canada has taken 8,000 packages, and "other countries," 42,100, virtually leaving the crop to rot on the ground.

TRANSVAAL AFFAIRS. Cape Town Loyalists Indorse Alfred Milner's Position.

At Cape Town, Africa, yesterday evening a meeting of 4,000 loyalists, under the presidency of the mayor of Cape Town, was held and adopted, with enthusiasm, resolutions supporting Sir Alfred Milner, governor of the colony and British high commissioner in South Africa, in his recent negotiations with President Kruger, and thanking the Canadians and the British high commissioner for their offers of assistance. An immense overflow meeting was also held.

The former, at which Right Hon. Sir John Gordon Sprigg, former premier of the colony, and numerous other political leaders, were present, was addressed by several Johannesburgers.

Sir Gordon Sprigg also addressed the meeting, declaring that unless Sir Alfred Milner was absolutely supported there was danger that the Cape colony would secede from the empire. He declared himself convinced that Great Britain was solidly behind the imperial secretary of state for the colonies, Joseph Chamberlain, whose recent speech before the unionists of Birmingham, England, dealing with the Transvaal problem, he warmly commended.

The conference between President Kruger and Fischer, a member of the executive council of the Orange Free State, who was the bearer of compromise suggestions from the Free State, in the matter of the disputes between the Transvaal and Great Britain, have been concluded at Pretoria. The general impression is that Fischer's mission has been successful. He afterward conferred with Mr. Conyngham Greene, the British diplomatic agent at Pretoria.

The Pall Mall Gazette says it has discovered in London two members of the Clan-na-Gael from the United States, who are en route to the Transvaal and trying to enlist money and men in support of the Boers. The Johannesburg correspondent of the Standard says:

We are selling clothing cheaper than others can buy it.

JAMAICA'S PRODUCTS. Except Oranges Its Export Trade to This Country is Increasing.

The Kingston, Jamaica, correspondence of the Associated Press, under date of June 29, says:

A timely illustration of the strong tendency of the Jamaican export trade to develop with the United States despite the adverse conditions is afforded by a comparison of the customs statistics during the time of the political crisis, when the colony was the most seriously apprehensive of the altered threat from Washington to retaliate against the new tariff. The later figures are not for the full quarter, but are brought down only to the week ended on June 10. Dealing first with the item of coffee, it appears that Canada and the United Kingdom took 4,584 hundred-weight in 1898, as against only 4,044 hundred-weight taken by the United States, while for this year's corresponding shipments Canada and the United Kingdom took only 4,214 hundred-weight as against 7,644 hundred-weight taken by the United States.

Cocoa, dye woods, pimento, rum, tobacco and cigars exhibit an all-round falling off in the aggregate of export, with a very slight proportionate increase in favor of the English trade. In the matter of bananas this year 125 bales were shipped experimentally to England against none last year, while the American shipments during the quarter ended April 30, 1899, amounted to 2,227,003 for the whole of the corresponding quarter of last year, indicating the steady increase in the production of this fruit. Other items, pineapples, coconuts, etc., show an improvement in production, indicating the passing of the industrial crisis and the period of depression, and a decided proportionate increase in shipments to America. Thus, while in 1898, the United Kingdom took 32,800 coconuts and the United States 3,340,550, the figures for this year are respectively 27,418 and 3,571,250.

The item of oranges shows what a duty on Jamaica products imposed by the United States can do toward not merely injuring, but wiping out an industry. Last year, during the quarter from April to June, inclusive, 50 packages of oranges were shipped to England experimentally, and were not successful. During the same time the ship 415,000. Meanwhile the duty against foreign oranges has gone into operation in the United States, with the startling result that since April only 150 packages of oranges have been shipped to America, and none at all to England. Canada has taken 8,000 packages, and "other countries," 42,100, virtually leaving the crop to rot on the ground.
